THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

THIS DOCUMENT CONTAINS INFORMATION AFFECTING THE NATIONAL DEFENSE OF THE UNITED STATES, WITHIN THE MEANING OF TITLE 18, SECTIONS 793 AND 794, OF THE U.S. CODE, AS AMENDED. ITS TRANSMISSION OR REVELATION OF ITS CONTENTS TO OR RECEIPT BY AN UNAUTHORIZED PERSON IS PROHIBITED BY LAW. THE REPRODUCTION OF THIS FORM IS PROHIBITED.

- There is a single hospital in Kyustendil, called the Kyustendil State Hospital. It is a red brick building located on the southeast edge of the city /see sketch enclosed/. There are a few small buildings behind it, most of which are residences for staff members. All of the surrounding countryside is devoted to vineyards. The hospital should be easy to recognize from the air or the ground because there are no other buildings in the southeastern part of the city of comparable size.

2. Dr. (fnu) Alexieff, about 40, is the only qualified surgeon in the Kyustendil area who is not on the staff of the State Hospital. Dr Alexieff bought a large house two blocks east of the court building (Sdeleshchye). [See enclosure to G9-K- ] The office is directly across the street from the city bath. Here Dr Alexieff has equipped an operating room and has space for perhaps 10 to 15 patients. He was considered to be more capable than the surgeons at the State Hospital. Dr Alexieff had no assistant doctors. Three or four nurses assisted in operations, patient care, etc. [redacted] to be anti-Communist. He is very independent and would not leave his private practice in Kyustendil unless forced to do so.

- None. All pharmaceuticals and medical supplies used in Kyustendil were obtained from the hospital or private doctors.

- None, unless nurse's aids were trained in the hospital.

- The city, which has about 18 thousand residents, had about 10 dentists in 1943. They were all engaged in independent private practice. There are no clinics or training facilities for dentists or dental assistants.
